FIRST EXPERIENCES IN THE USE OF EXPENSE MODELS

(Erste Erfahrungen aus der Arbeit mit Kostenmodellen)

Statistische Praxis, (German Democratic Republic), No. 1, 1969

In this paper, the author points to the role and objective necessity of using cybernetic models in the work of analysis and decision of economic processes, as well as the influence of feedback, including that of disturbances, on the modifications of decisions. Further, models of production expenses and lattice graphs are shown, regarding the technologic phases associated to each model.
